

GALLERY

Barbed gun table. It is actually a storage unit lined with leather. Legs are 1" with a 5/8" barb. 21" x 50" x 24".

L. David Flynn shaping steel, Jon Molden using power hammer.

David Flynn & Jon Molden, Tucson, Arizona

Diablo Forge is owned and run by David Flynn and Jon Molden, brothers-in-law. In June, 2002, David and Jon decided to participate in the Cowboy Christmas Show at the Sands Expo in Las Vegas during the National Final Rodeo. It was at that time that they developed what has now become known as "Texas Barbed Wire." The response was much better than they could have expected. The two blacksmiths are still adding new concepts in barbed wire to this day. Some of those concepts can be seen at their web site www.diabloforge.com. ★

The "Dude Ranch." Natural forged finish. Molded concrete top. 1" barbed wire with 5/8" barb. 15" x 15" x 25"h.

The Texas Chandelier. Rust finish. 3/4" barbed wire with 1/2" barbs. The large chandelier has 5 arms and 10 lamps and measures 40" x 48" h.

Bunkhouse headboard. Rust finish. 3/4" barbed wire with 1/2" barbs. The bed posts are actually split-rail fence posts. It measures 80" x 5" x 78" h

The "Barbed Cannon" ceiling light fixture. Rust finish. The chain is all hand-forged out of 3/8" round bar. The barbed wire is 1" with 5/8" barb. Fixture itself measures 14" in diameter by 20" high. Rust finish. The chain is all hand forged out of 3/8" round bar.

Texas Barbed Wire